

Brian Birdy

Brian brings his energy and passion for teaching and motivating others with him everywhere he goes. As Vice President of Property Management In. (“PMI”), much of his time is spent coaching PMI property managers one-on-one or planning and building better methods of success for them. As an active NARPM member, Brian has been an instructor and leader in the organization for many years, including serving on the national board of directors and as President for 2018. Brian owns his own successful property management business, PMI Birdy Properties, which he took over from his father as a one-man office and grew it into the largest real estate and property management company in San Antonio, Texas. A veteran of the United States Air Force, Brian also serves as PMI’s veteran franchisee liaison. In addition to being a multi-state Licensed Real Estate Broker, Brian has received his Residential Management Professional and Master Property Manager designations from NARPM, and a Certified Property Manager designation from Institute of Real Estate Management.
